THE PROCLAMATION DISMISSING "MY LORDS AND GENTLEMEN."

Prince Henry and His Own Hearse—The Ministerial Contingent—Times are Change—Since "Good Queen Bess" Was Queen—War—Fore-gu.

WINDSOR, Nov. 21.—The reporter reached the royal borough just as the royal train from Balmoral steamed into the station with the queen, who had traveled all night to preside over a council of her ministers in order to dissolve parliament. The queen was dressed in black, as usual, and looked wonderfully robust as she stepped out of a gaudy blue drawing room car with the Princess Beatrice and Prince Henry of Battenberg. The royal suite followed at a respectful distance, laden with rugs and handboxes. The princess, who is in an interesting condition, wore a loose seal-skin jacket and looked pale and jaded. Prince Henry looked less dejected than might have been expected after his having made so long a journey dressed in a Highland costume and in the company of so exacting a mother-in-law as her majesty is reported to be.

This is the first time Prince Henry and his bride have visited Windsor since their marriage, and in honor of the occasion the town was decked with a brilliant display of bunting. The prince and princess made a triumphal tour through the Windsor streets, unaccompanied by the queen. As the royal party left the station in a court carriage, drawn by two gray horses, the royal standard was unfurled on the round tower of the castle, but this and the flags displayed at the windows on the route were the only signs of welcome, as, out of deference to the queen's inveterate dislike to crowds, her royal subjects had been forbidden to encumber the road to the castle.

A special train brought in the ministerial trio—Lords Salisbury, Cranbrook and George Hamilton—with Mr. Charles Lennox Peel, clerk of the privy council. A band of local Tories, adorned with huge blue rosettes and primroses, assembled on the platform to meet them, but the masses apparently took no interest in ministers and dissolutions. Expecting a much larger ministerial detachment, the queen had sent two of her largest and shabbiest carriages to the station. But Lord Randolph Churchill, who is at home nursing an influenza, Lord Lansdowne, who is at Exeter, while Mr. William Henry Smith, Sir Richard Cross, Sir Michael Hicks-Beech and others are on the stump in various parts of the country or are detained by official business in town.

The premier's big and ungainly form was almost hidden in furs, and he carried his right arm in a sling. He looked careworn, and seemed considerably bored at having had to come so far for a mere formality. Dissolutions are not the pompous affairs they used to be when "Good Queen Bess" rode to parliament in state on a pillion, perched behind her lord high treasurer and attended by a glittering cavalcade of courtiers. Radicalism is rubbing the gilt off much of the old time gingerbread, and even the lord mayor's coach is doomed. Early in the present century such ceremonies commenced to become more simple. William IV., on one memorable occasion, drove down to dissolve parliament in a hackney coach, but he wore his crown when he entered the house of lords, and Lord Gray, with his sword of state, gave an impressive touch to the ceremony. Cromwell had a summary way of dissolving parliament. He sent his last parliament "to the right about" with the brief intimation "to the right about" and "I do dissolve this parliament, and let God judge between me and you."

Dissolution has of late years been generally done by mere proclamation. These proceedings lasted about ten minutes. The ministers drove to the castle, were ushered into the council chamber, handed the proclamation—the death warrant of Mr. Gladstone's parliament—to the queen, who signed it at half-past two, the parliament expired, and the ministers went to luncheon.

Tipperary's Convention.

THURLES, Nov. 21.—The Tipperary convention held here for the selection of four parliamentary candidates passed off quietly, contrary to expectation and without any positive revolt against Mr. Parnell's authority. The two sitting members, Messrs. Thomas Mayne and John O'Connor, were nominated for four seats, but after an exhaustive discussion, and a pretty clear indication of the opinion of the convention, all withdrew except three, Messrs. Condon, O'Brien and Neslon. Mr. Condon, a well known extreme Nationalist, was unanimously elected from the three.

A struggle then took place between Messrs. O'Brien and Neslon for the fourth seat. Both men were strongly supported by a considerable following, and before their claims could be decided it became necessary to take a division in the convention. Mr. O'Brien was selected by a majority. This is the first convention where an almost equal division has taken place among the delegates. All the selections, were, however, finally made unanimously and the proceeding terminated amicably. Mr. John Dillon presided at the convention and received a hearty welcome from his old constituents.

Death Intimidation.

DUBLIN, Nov. 21.—One Kelly, a laborer applied to the chief of police for protection, asserting that he had been threatened by the members of the Fenian Brotherhood organization of this city with death, unless he consented to assassinate the late Crown Solicitor Balton, who figured so extensively in the scandals alleged against certain castle officials some time ago.

Arthur O'Connor.

DUBLIN, Nov. 21.—Mr. Arthur O'Connor, the present Home Rule member of parliament for Queen's county, has announced his intention of contesting East Donegal in the coming election.

A Corn Panic.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 21.—The panic in the corn market continues, and further failures are believed to be impending.

ARKANSAW'S LAST LIE.

The "Storm" of Grasshoppers that Wake the Inhabitants and Fill the Streets.

HELENA, Ark., Nov. 21.—The citizens of Helena were aroused by what many of them at first thought to be a very heavy rain storm, but on looking out were surprised to see a clear sky, filled with what appeared to be snow flakes and not rain that was pattering with such force against the roofs and windows of houses.

Investigation proved that the air was filled with grasshoppers. Citizens who have seen the dreaded pests sweep down and consume whole fields in Kansas say that in numbers the visitation exceeds anything ever seen in that country ten fold. They were passing from east to west.

Great numbers of them were disabled by hitting against buildings and other obstructions, as they were flying very low, and porters and clerks had to shovel them off the sidewalks into the streets. They are the genuine Kansas grasshoppers.

Floater Identifed.

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—It is learned that the body of the woman taken from the lake, and about which much doubt existed as to whether it was suicide or murder, is that of Mrs. Bipper, wife of F. W. Bipper, a butcher at 273 State street. Mrs. Bipper announced her intent on going to the cattle show, and she left home ostensibly to carry out her project, nothing unusual was noticed either in her manner or conversation. The fact of her not returning alarmed Mr. Bipper, and search was instituted without result, until when he identified the remains as that of his wife. He states that they lived happily together and there is no reason why she should commit suicide, unless she became suddenly deranged.

The Hocking Strike.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 21.—The present strike of the miners in the Hocking Valley district is likely to cause trouble on the Pan-handle railroad. During the past few days a number of the Hocking Valley syndicate cars has been delivered on the Pan-handle railroad for loading. The miners intend holding meetings at which a proposition to boycott Hocking Valley cars will be discussed. Said a prominent leader: "The miners now have their eyes open to the fact that the operators are but sawing one district against another, and will refuse to assist the operators of a competing district to starve their employees into submission."

Mortgage Bonds Sold.

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—The $1,842,000 second mortgage bonds of the New York and New England railroad held by the commonwealth was sold to Francis L. Higginson, representing the friends of the present management. The price paid was 90, and the syndicate agreed to subscribe for 25 per cent. of the face value in the preferred stock of the road. A bid of 95 1/2 from Brewster, Cobb & Estabrook, representing New York capitalists, was refused on the ground that its acceptance might place the control of the road in the hands of parties who would be adverse to the interests of Boston and Massachusetts.

Burying Giving Bonds.

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 21.—The deputy sheriff visited Judge John C. Yates at his residence in Richmond township, and served a warrant sworn out by David Shearer, charging him with embezzlement and larceny of $425, and a capias issued at the instance of Mrs. Guth. The judge gave bond for his appearance on the 25th in both cases. This is but the beginning of the end; the work of serving warrants on him having commenced, the judge will be kept busy giving bonds from this time on. The assignee of the Yates estate says that he finds things in better condition than he had reason to expect.

An Indian Uprising.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 21.—Dispatches from Batteford say there is great apprehension there of an Indian uprising. It is asserted in the most positive manner that the southern and northern tribes are forming an alliance to sweep the whole country from the far north to the boundary line. This means a revolt of the Indian population of the Northwest. Runners who have been among the various tribes say the trouble may come at any moment. It was in a similar manner to this that the Dominion government was warned of the Saskatchewan trouble.

Off for Enoland.

OXFORD, Kan., Nov. 21.—P. C. Kirkland, cashier of the Farmers & Merchants' bank at Oxford, Kan., took all the funds he could find, turned the time lock of the safe forty hours ahead, and absconded. He left the books in such confusion that the amount of his peculations cannot be learned for several days. It will probably not exceed a few thousand dollars, however. Kirkland was treasurer for several secret societies, and their money is gone with the rest. Kirkland leaves a family here.

A Poisoned Well.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—An old well which has been abandoned for many years was opened recently on the farm of Thomas Poole, in Chester county, to furnish water for an engine. Miss Annie Poole, Frank Townsend, Edward Mackay and others drank of the water and became terribly ill. Miss Poole and Townsend died after a painful illness. Mackay and the others are slightly better. It is believed that the water was impregnated with deadly mineral poison.

Ochiltree's Appeal.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—Hon. Thomas Ochiltree, of Texas, appeared before the citizens' relief committee in Galveston. He said 500 of the dwellings destroyed were occupied by poor families, among whom much destitution exists. He said the sufferers are badly in need of blankets, clothing and money with which to purchase food. An appeal will be made by the mayor to citizens for contributions.

Not Guilty at Last.

MT. VERNON, Ind., Nov. 21.—Prince Jones, who has been on trial four times for the murder of James Payne in 1880, was acquitted of the charge, the jury being out an hour. This ends the famous case. The victim on his deathbed charged Jones with the crime. Twice was the accused convicted, but the supreme court reversed the decision of the lower court each time on technical grounds.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS.

MR. EATON MAY REMAIN IN THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION.

Dr. Crowe Loses His Suit for the Price of a stolen corpse—A Navajo Indian Visits the White House—The President and Ladies—National Affairs.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The suit of Dr. Seiden W. Crowe to recover $15, the value of a dead body furnished the medical department of Georgetown university for dissection purposes, came to a sudden close by the refusal of the plaintiff to testify that he was the owner of the anatomical material when he delivered it to the college. He gave as a reason for declining to answer the question that it was a professional secret which he would not divulge. He added, however, that he was in possession of the body when delivered. The presiding magistrate in deciding the case for the defendant said such a thing as a professional secret on the part of a physician was not recognized by the laws of this district. It was expected that the suit would bring to light the modus operandi by which the medical colleges here obtained anatomical material for their dissecting rooms. It was understood that if Dr. Crowe made any admission in that connection he would lay himself liable to a criminal prosecution for grave robbery, the penalty for which, under a recent law, is one year in jail for each offense.

Tall Shanter, a six-foot Navajo Indian, accompanied by a half-breed Navajo, from New Mexico, was the attraction in the East Room at the White House at the president's reception. Tall Shanter is a much handsomer looking Indian than the ordinary Indians of New Mexico, who are as a rule small in stature. He wore high heeled boots and clothing of the latest fashionable cut. His long hair he had put up in a French twist—a style now popular with the ladies—giving him a rather feminine look. An interpreter introduced him and his associate to the president, who had a pleasant though rather brief talk with them.

There were nearly two hundred other visitors. As in all these receptions the ladies were in the majority. One of the ladies tried to make the president believe that her husband was in some way related to him, but he did not recognize the name though he did not deny the relationship, which pleased the lady very much. The customary number of children were presented to the president, the little ones being apparently delighted with the pleasant way the president received them. The president had but few callers. Secretary Endicott called to talk about some matters that the president intends to discuss in his message to congress, and which he asked Secretary Endicott to look up for him.

It is understood that Mr. Dorman B. Eaton can remain a member of the civil service commission as long as he desires, and that he has decided to continue his connection with the commission until near the end of the approaching session of congress. The present law in regard to the civil service is defective in many of its parts. In the report of the commission that Mr. Eaton is now preparing he will urge a number of amendments which his experience has proven to be necessary to improve the operation of the law.

Gen. Stonehouse, of Albany, who was a member of President Cleveland's staff when he was governor of New York, is lying very seriously ill at the Elbitt house, in this city.

The Grant Property.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—There has been placed on record an assignment of W. H. Vanderbilt, of New York, to Edward V. W. Rosier, of Flushing, N. Y., of the interest of the first named in two certain mortgages made by Ulysses S. Grant and his wife, of certain Washington property received May 30, 1884, to secure the payment of $150,000, the consideration being $123,330.30, bearing date of April 27 last; also an assignment by Edward V. W. Rosier to W. J. Van Arsdale, of New York, of the mortgage dated May 17, 1884, from Gen. Grant and wife to Mr. Vanderbilt, the consideration being $25,000. The explanation for this action is found in the next paper presented for record—a deed from Mr. Van Arsdale to Catherine Sawyer Feshall of lot 23, F. D. Grant's subdivision of lots in square 278, for $3,800.

A Look Ahead.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The National Republican has the following: "The president in conversation with a Republican senator told the latter that he would esteem it a great favor if senators knowing anything objectionable or detrimental to public interests about any person or persons appointed by him would apprise him of the facts. The president expects that a significant move will be made on some of his appointments but believes that the majority of Republican senators will not oppose any attempt to defeat confirmation, except in cases where unimpeachable facts are presented, and that such cases exist the objection will be called to his attention before there is any organized opposition.

Appointments.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The president made the following appointments: To be consuls of the United States—Preston L. Bridger, of North Carolina, at Montevideo, Uruguay; Wm. C. Emmett, of New York, at Smyrna, Turkey; Wm. H. McArdle, of Massachusetts, at San Juan del Norte, Nicaragua; Joseph W. Merriam, a citizen of the United States, at Iquique, Chili.

Earthquake Waves.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Professor George Davidson reports that light earthquake waves were exhibited on the coast survey tide gauge at San Francisco, from one to eight hours, crests of waves thirty-five minutes apart, height six inches. Similar waves were shown on the San Francisco gauge in connection with the earthquake at Java a few years since.

The Pole Will Perish.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—John Groblewski, the Pole, who has been on trial in Brooklyn for killing his wife by slow poison, was found guilty of murder in the first degree. He was convicted upon the testimony of Winifred Hanley, a girl in his employ.

RIGHTEOUS BOYCOTT.

Convict Labor in Texas to be Tested by the Knights of Labor.

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 21.—A well founded report prevails here that the Knights of Labor have arranged to spring the boycott on the stone and granite contractors of the new capitol because of the employment of 400 convicts at the granite quarries near Burnet. The convicts are now completing the railroad to the quarries, and stone will begin to arrive for the enormous building within the next ten days or two weeks. The knights will declare the boycott just as soon as the first car load of convict granite is landed on the capital grounds. Not a single Knight of Labor will be permitted to touch or handle the product of the convicts. The report causes a good deal of uneasiness, as about five hundred masons are employed to complete the granite work. Should these men refuse to work the conflict would be brought squarely home to the state government, and convict labor would either triumph or forever be done away with on railroads and public buildings in Texas.

Kiel Buried.

REGINA, Nov. 21.—The body of Louis Kiel was buried by Father Andre in the vault underneath the church of the Immaculate Conception and a guard placed over his remains. The ceremonial was simple and impressive.

Runaway Boy and Engine.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 21.—Robert Baldwin, aged thirteen years, who ran away from Kensington, Ill., to join a circus, leaped into the uncoupled cab of an engine on the Jacksonville, St. Augustine and Halifax River railroad, at St. Augustine, and pulling out the throttle started at full speed for Jacksonville. At Bayard, however, the water in the boiler gave out and the engine stopped, when Baldwin jumped off and escaped into the woods. Fortunately there was no night train on the schedule.

A Big Bridge.

BROOKLYN, Nov. 21.—The New England & Southern Railroad company has mortgaged its road for $600,000, and has contracted with the Phoenix Bridge company, for a cantilever bridge across the Hudson, at Storm King, to be 235 feet above high water mark. Work will begin as soon as possible. The bridge and the road will form a connecting link between the Erie railway and the New York & New England road.

Charged With Big Swindles.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 21.—Charles B. Legnard, of Chicago, has arrived to answer in the federal court to a half dozen indictments for subornation of perjury and conspiracy to defraud the government. Legnard and other Chicago parties are charged with being at the head of one of the most extensive swindles in the Valentine land office ever practiced upon the public domain.

Labor Notes.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 21.—Representative miners from different parts of the anthracite coal region are in secret session here to discuss the labor difficulties. The majority of the delegates come instructed to demand the restoration of 3 per cent., the enforcement of the timber law and the abolishing of the rule compelling the workmen to work overtime to supply the demand for coal.

Fire Victims Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—Charles McLean, aged twenty-six years, residing at No. 1827 Palace street, and Patrick Boyle, aged twenty-six years, residing at No. 1150 South Fifteenth street, both of whom were burned at the fire at the works of the Philadelphia Lubric company, Swanson and Moore streets, died from their injuries in the Pennsylvania hospital.

A Just Reward.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Miss Angelina M. Brown, who sued her physicians for damages because they had sent her to the small-pox hospital in November, 1879, under the diagnosis that she was suffering from that disease when in reality it was simply a case of eczema, was awarded $500 by Judge Ingraham in the superior court. A motion for a new trial was denied.

Jealous Murders.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Louis Summerfield, a Polisher, shot and killed his wife Christine and then shot and killed Gottlieb Eisenbrow, a saloon keeper. The victims of the shooting died almost immediately. Summerfield was arrested by Officer Slack and locked up at the Seventh precinct station. The cause is supposed to be jealousy.

Attempt to Wreck a Train.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Nov. 21.—An attempt was made to wreck the Glencoe express three miles west of this city on the Air Line railroad by putting obstructions on the track. Three brothers, Felix, Arthur and Henry Graham, of Wyandotte, Mich., were arrested on suspicion. It is believed, however, that they are innocent of the charge.

Branching Out.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—A dispatch was sent west by St. Paul railroad officers announcing to Chicago friends of the company that the board of directors had decided to push forward the road's Kansas City extension at once, and had just given an order for a large quantity of new steel rails, said to be 10,000 tons.

Passenger Rates.

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—The passenger agents of the eastern lines in session here decided to make the basing rate from Chicago to New York $20. Rates from points west of Chicago will be established on this basis, but tickets purchased in Chicago for passage from Chicago to New York will be sold at the rate which now prevails.

William Heath in Jail.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—William Heath, of Heath & Co., who failed October 2 with liabilities of $1,440,000, was arrested at the instance of Morosini and committed to Ludlow street jail. His indebtedness to Morosini is $540,000. Among the creditors are Jay Gould. Morosini is the only creditor who has begun proceedings.

Stephen Ostrander Dead.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Stephen M. Ostrander, the historian of Long Island, and a leading citizen of Brooklyn, died, aged 54.
